this paper attempts to merge the concepts and theoretical frameworks of the disciplines of anthropology and economics and attempts to create a new sub field in economics called anthropological economics which is mired in anthropological concepts and principles and seeks to maximize not only human welfare and happiness but also wealth maximization across cultures while considering both the psychic unity of man universal human needs and culture specific factors thus anthropological economics is expected to be inter related to other disciplines of economics but remain complementary to them i e it is not expected that it will intrude into other sub fields of economics replace them or override their principles in any way it will therefore draw upon other aspects of economic theory and enrich them suitably it is therefore expected that all aspects of economic theory will be taken into consideration for policy formulation and decision making including those of anthropological economics and independent context specific judgment will always be applied the new proposed field of anthropological economics proposes to take the idea of human welfare to its logical conclusion by extending the work already carried out in various sub disciplines of economics and integrating it more tightly with various concepts in anthropology many new tools and techniques are therefore proposed as a part of this paper and we believe these will suitably enrich the field of economics as well while many attempts have been made in the past to integrate the fields of anthropology and economics we hope this endeavour will take this exercise to a much higher level by creating a new generation of anthroeconomists we also hope it will eventually help move mainstream economics away from neo classical approaches to anthropological and human centric approaches this short book explores a core group of 40 topics that tend to go unexplored in an introductory economics course though not a replacement for an introductory text the work is intended as a supplement to provoke further thought and discussion by juxtaposing blackboard models of the economy with empirical observations each chapter starts with a short refresher of standard neoclassical economic modelling before getting into real world economic life komlos shows how misleading it can be to mechanically apply the perfect competition model in an oligopolistic environment where only an insignificant share of economic activity takes place in perfectly competitive conditions most economics texts introduce the notion of oligopoly and differentiate it from the perfect competition model with its focus on price takers komlos contends that oligopolies are price makers like monopolies and cause consumers and economies nearly as much harm likewise most textbook authors eschew any distortions of market pricing by government but there is usually little discussion of the real impact of minimum wages which komlos corrects the book is an affordable supplement for all basic economics courses or for anyone who wants to review the basic ideas of economics with clear eyes
